

Subscribe

Share ▾

Past Issues

Translate ▾

RS

View this email in your browser

The Nordic Africa Institute | 29 January 2016

AFTER THE OIL RUSH

ANGOLA Angola's oil industry generated US$ 468 billion in 13 years. But where did all the money go?

Shades of Africa

NEW E-BOOK High-quality research on Africa with strong links to policy and practice.

Military wives ignored

DR CONGO Soldier's spouses hover between military and civilian worlds. New report by Maria Eriksson Baaz and Judith Verweijen.

Changes don't come easy

Collaboration with Freedom Park

SOUTH AFRICA The Nordic Africa Institute and Freedom Park in Pretoria have a joint project in the pipeline.

Gender challenges

UGANDA The upcoming elections are not likely to bring change.

One man's war on corruption

NIGERIA It seems as if President Buhari's promise to fight corruption was not just cheap talk.

in Africa

CALL FOR PANELS The Nordic Africa Days 2016 in Uppsala 23-24 September has a thematic focus on gender. March 3rd is the deadline for panel proposals.

Meet the NAI family

FACEBOOK The Nordic Africa Institute has produced research and information about Africa for more than 50 years. But who are the people behind this work? In a new series of mini-interviews, our followers on Facebook will get glimpses into the everyday realities of our researchers.

The Nordic Africa Institute is a center for research, documentation and information on modern Africa, based in Uppsala, Sweden, and jointly financed by Finland, Iceland and Sweden. Contact us >>

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list

MailChimp