

Amy Niang

Amy Niang is Senior Lecturer in International Relations at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, South Africa. Her research is informed by a broad interest in the history of state formation and related processes. She also investigates substantive questions around theory-formation, representation and knowledge-making in/on the non-West particularly in reference to “Africa” as a moral, material, and political field of enquiry. Her work has been published in Alternatives: Global, Local, Political; Politics; Afrique Contemporaine; African Economic History, African Studies and in a number of edited collections. She has held visiting positions at the Universities of Michigan, Princeton, Halle-Wittenberg, Cornell and the West African Research Centre. She is a member of the advisory board of African Affairs; Millennium-Journal of International Studies; Critical African Studies and the Brazilian Journal of International Relations.
