??	Gashena	../..	[20]
	On the China Road we set off towards Kon and Gashena. There was only one road, but it split into a fork with both sides seeming to disappear into tracks. The locals were very vague on which way to go. "We had thought the distance from the bridge on the Bashilo to Gashena was 72 kilometers -- It was actually a gruelling 108 kilometers which took us 4 1/4 hours to traverse. -- We finally reached the bottom at Shedero River. -- The bridge was almost finished, but the road wasn't. In fact, the bridge ran nicely from the road on one side, but ran straight into a cliff on the other. -- I've never seen anything like it. -- We crossed the river, which was accommodatingly easy. -- We gratefully climbed up the improved road on the other side. Eventually it became really good, and we zoomed through Kon and made it to Gashena. Although it took four hours from the Bashilo bridge -- it was still at least 2 hours faster than the alternative route through Dessie and Weldiya. -- Because of the gruelling drive from Tenta, we had arrived at Gashena two hours later than expected, and tired and worn we pushed on 70 km /to Nefas Mewcha/."
